Assist visitors to discover a museum

Description

A leading war museum is looking for 'Discover' volunteers, who will be the warm and welcoming face of the museum. Volunteers must be confident and able to use their initiative and intuition.

Volunteers are sought who are friendly, engaging and passionate about the museum and its charitable message.

As well as helping visitors explore the exhibits and activities Discover volunteers also welcome school groups and help to point out key facilities, address access needs and highlight the museum's 'Hidden Gems'.

Discover volunteers will make visitors feel special and valued by informing, enthusing and engaging in all the museum has to offer. They will make recommendations based on visitors' personal interests and provide information to make sure that they get the very most out of their visit.
